Telstar graduates Friday

Friday, June 7, is Commencement Day for the Telstar Regional High School Class of 1991.

Commencement ceremonies for the graduates, their families and friends will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the gym.

The welcome will be delivered by Jennifer Gould. Featured speakers will be class Valedictorian Nathaniel Buckman, Salutatorian Cynthia Hamel and Third Honors Graduate Kristen Powell. The farewell will be given by Kristen Delano.

The co-presidents of the student council, Bruce Korhonen and Gena Morgan, will review the four years of high school the class has shared.

This year's Baccalaureate ceremonies will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Helen Berry Memorial Auditorium. Baccalaureate will be sponsored by the Bethel Area Clergy Association.

unseasonably warm May day last week, while their parents and teachers prepared barbecued hot dogs and laid out the potluck picnic. The center's Head Start program is over for the season.

Fire destroys Newry home

A Tuesday afternoon fire destroyed the Newry residence of Eleanor and Norman Davis.

As of late Tuesday afternoon the blaze was still being battled by fire fighters and equipment from Newry, Bethel and Rumford. According to witnesses at the scene, however, there appeared to be little the firefighters could do to save the home.

Mrs. Davis was at home when the fire broke out, apparently in an attached garage.

She was reportedly able to save the family's two cats, as well as some keepsakes and valuables before being forced to flee the building.

The farmhouse, a large building more than a century old, had been home to the Davis family for a number of generations.

Bethel—votes Tuesday, meets Wednesday

Bethel voters will go to the polls Tuesday, June 11, to elect town officers, and will meet the following evening, at 7 p.m. in the Helen Berry Auditorium at Telstar High School for this year's annual town meeting.

With a relatively non-controversial warrant, only a small budget increase and no national or state primary elections this year, town officials are predicting a relatively small voter turnout next week.

Folls, at the fire station, will be open Tuesday from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. One three-year selectman's position is open, and there is one candidate, Norman Putnam. No one has announced as a candidate for the three-year assessor's position that is open this year.

Two positions, also for three years, are open on the S&D #44 board of directors. One of the two incumbents, Cheryl Elliot, is running for reelection. The other, Jeri Greenwell, has not filed papers and has recently announced that she will not run as a write-in candidate.

In the absence of candidates who have filed papers for the assessor and school director positions, both posts are likely to be filled by write-in candidates. As of one week before the election, however, no write-in cam-

Andover's Williamson is MVP as USM wins Div. III World Series

Plays this summer for Westies unless Cape Cod League calls

Gary Williamson of Andover, a sophomore at the University of Southern Maine, was selected as the Most Valuable Player in the 1991 NCAA Division III World Series, held last week in Battle Creek, Michigan.

Williamson's 9-for-16 hitting in the tournament helped lead the Huskies to their first-ever national sports title. The young left fielder was also named co-MVP of the northeast regional tournament held a week earlier in Gorham.

Local baseball fans remember Williamson as a key player on Telstar High School's 1989 Maine State Class C Championship squad. More than just an offensive threat, Williamson also pitched for the Rebels in the championship game, allowing Eastern Maine champ George Stevens only 2 runs on 4 hits, while striking out 12. The higher a player moves in organized baseball, the more specialized the competition becomes, so Williamson said he doesn't plan to continue his pitching career in college. But he has pitched a few innings this season for the West Paris Westies, the local entry in Western Maine's Pine Tree League.

He said he plans to concentrate instead on his hitting, with an eye toward a possible shot at professional ball. "It's every ballplayer's dream," he said, noting that some of the players from this year's Division III world series will no doubt be drafted by the pros.

Williamson said he plans to spend the summer working, coaching his hometown Little League team and

Local reservists enjoying time off after tour of duty

Order of the day: family and fishing

After months of driving transport trucks non-stop, seven days a week, in the seemingly endless deserts of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, Jim Cobb and Andy Smith are finally enjoying some time off.

Cobb, who works on the road crew for the town of Greenwood, said he plans to return to work after his leave from the reserves is up June 15. Smith said he'll probably go back to work at Brooks Brothers this month.

Both Smith and Cobb said the SCUD attacks were the biggest threat to their safety during the war.

"The SCUDs were our biggest scare," said Cobb, "but after a while

"New Year's Eve we ended up in the middle of the desert with 18 trucks, 12 of which got stuck in the sand. So we made a big bonfire and toasted in the New Year with bottled water."

Jim Cobb

The local reservists, members of the 619th Transportation Company of Auburn, spent six months in the Persian Gulf. Now they're spending some time fishing familiar local waters and relaxing with their families before returning to civilian work.

"I'll probably get sick of fishing sometime," he said.

For most of their tour of duty, the two were stationed in the port city of Dammam. "We hauled out into the middle of the desert, dropped the trailers and another company would you got used to them. After the first 10 or 12 alerts I didn't even bother to go outside." He said sirens would go off even if the attack was aimed at Riyadh or Israel. "But if you heard the Patriots go off, then you'd head for

Sens. Mitchell and Cohen seek public comments on Northern Forest Lands Act

Maine Senators Bill Cohen and George Mitchell have joined several Senate colleagues in drafting legislation to promote forest land conservation and rural economic development in the northeast.

The Senators are seeking public comment on the measure, known as the "Northern Forest Lands Act of 1991." The bill would establish a four-state Northern Forest Lands Council to provide a coordinated regional approach to forest land conservation in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York.

The council would authorize research programs, inventories of significant natural resources and other programs to come up with ways to protect northern forest lands threatened by development. The council would have no regulatory or land-acquisition authority.

"We are circulating this draft bill so that Mainers will have the opportunity to help shape the future of the northern forests," the Senators said in a joint statement. "We believe that public participation is very important in this process, and we will work to incorporate the comments we receive into the final bill."

The draft legislation will be sent to representatives of environmental, conservation and landowner groups,

Grads keep Gould colors flying at Naval Academy

One Maine man turned down admissions offers to three universities in order to attend Gould Academy for post-high school studies. Why? Because he wanted training at Gould as a stepping stone to the U.S. Naval Academy.

Jim Henderson of Kittery found two other Gould graduates, Matthew Boyd of Orono and David Kersey of Bethel, when he came to Annapolis in 1989. Brenda Taylor of Bethel joined the other three in seeking an alternate route to the academy. Through the Naval Academy Foundation, a non-profit organization that awards a limited number of scholarships for post-high school preparatory studies, each of the four received scholarships to attend Gould Academy.

Their perseverance was rewarded. All four graduated from Gould Academy and received Naval Academy appointments. "Now they are doing Gould proud," says retired Navy Cmdr. John Todd, a Gould Academy administrator who recently visited the four midshipmen at the academy.

Matthew Boyd, son of Dr. and Mrs.

Mark Boyd of Orono, graduated from the academy on May 29. He plans to pursue a career as a surface warfare officer and to attend nuclear power school in Orlando, Fla. As a midshipman, he majored in mechanical

G'wood selectmen seek authority to quit claim tax lien property

Greenwood selectmen are seeking the authority to return town acquired properties to delinquent taxpayers in exchange for the overdue taxes and penalties. The matter will be put before voters at a special town meeting June 25, 7 p.m., at the Town Hall.

Selectman Marie Bartlett said the town now requires that properties with a tax lien on them be put out for bid. The only recourse for delinquent taxpayers seeking to retain their properties is to ask for a special town meeting. At that meeting the taxpayer can plead his case to the townspeople and ask them to vote to sell the property back for the taxes and penalties owed.

Bartlett said the town currently acquires property after the taxes on it remain unpaid for three years. She said ample notification of the takeover is given to the property owner—as state law dictates.

Selectmen are asking for the

Opinions

Pick up the load

Bethel's municipal elections next week promise to be not only "no contest," but in two cases, "no contestant."

Norman Putnam is the only candidate for the three-year term open on the board of selectmen, and no one has filed papers for the current term on the board of assessors. On the school board, incumbent director Cheryl Eliot will not doubt be reelected (as she should be) to one of the two open seats; but her fellow director, Jeri Greenwell, has decided against seeking reelection, citing personal commitments and increased frustration dealing with the board and with the SAD #44 administration.

Greenwell's departure (she has also declined to run as a write-in candidate) is a loss to the entire district. She is one of a shrinking number of directors who held to a conscientious centerist position—exercising independent judgement, especially on financial matters, while seeking to balance the need for quality education against a realistic assessment of the resources available to district taxpayers. Public officials high and low tell us they do the same, but few do it at the painfully up-close-and-personal level of school directors. And few are given so few resources for doing the job, or so little recompense for trying.

Ironically, the role of school director can be a very simple, undemanding one, a real ego stroke. For the staunch fiscal conservative, it is easy enough to vote "no" to virtually everything—and doing so involves little study or agonizing. At the other end of the spectrum, the we-invest-an-expensive-we-didn't-like crowd can be counted as automatic votes for any whim that strikes the educationists' fancy.

But both these groups are shirking their real responsibilities to the community and to the district's students.

Greenwell, and directors like her, faced up to these responsibilities by examining each decision on its own merits, whatever the pressures from self-interested elements in the community or district administration.

It's a position that commits these directors to an endless succession of painful choices, while affording few chances for the gratification that comes with clear-cut successes.

For their willingness to do this, week after week, year after year, they deserve at least our thanks.

And in Greenwell's case, we should also be gracious enough to allow her a graceful exit. (As Tom Remington points out in a letter to the editor this week, when it's time to go, it's time to go.) She should not be dragged out by write-in or appointment into reluctantly sitting out another term.

So, let her step down, but let us also hope that during the next six days a similarly responsible community member will step forward to shoulder the load.

authority to return properties to delinquent taxpayers in limited circumstances, which would allow them to bypass a special town meeting. "On some rare occasions the selectmen would like the flexibility to make a judgement call to quit claim the property back to the owner without a town vote. The Maine Municipal Association has said that a lot of towns are working on the wording that will give the towns' selectmen that flexibility," Bartlett said.

One example of when selectmen might use the proposed authority is when a mistake has been made by the town office, Bartlett said, such as an oversight in billing or tax payments credited to the wrong year. (She cautioned taxpayers that when they pay overdue taxes they should be careful to stipulate what year they want any delinquent tax money applied to.)

meeting decide not to grant the selectmen the authority they seek, then three residents, all of whom owe back taxes, will also be asking voters at the meeting to allow them to purchase back their properties for the taxes and penalties owed. But the voters could opt not to do so, Bartlett said, and put the properties up for bid.

At the special town meeting, selectmen will also ask residents to appropriate $5,000 for general assistance and money for the maintenance of the East Twitchell Pond Road.

Bartlett said that these two articles usually appear on the annual town meeting warrant, but were inadvertently left off this year. The amount of money to be requested for the care of the East Twitchell Pond Road has not been set yet. Bartlett said selectmen will determine the dollar amount after talking with the road commissioner.

Make your plans now for Mollykett Day

Plans for Bethel's July 20 Mollykett Day activities are firming up. This year's theme will be "Patriotism."

The Bethel Lions Club said that the theme covers everything and everyone from the Minutemen at Concord, Mass., to the men and women of Desert Storm—and all the Americans who supported them.

Space on the Bethel common for arts and crafts booths is still available, on a first come first serve basis. The fee for the open areas is $35 and under the main tent in the center of the common is $40.

Forms or information are available by calling Allan Waterhouse, at 824-2371, or Ed Friel, at 824-2107. The parade chairperson for 1991 is Gert Friel at 824-2107.

Those interested in information and rules regarding the selection of Princess Mollykett can call Mac Gould at 824-2747.

KEEP GRADUATION CHEM FREE

To the Editor:

As schools are a microcosm of the society in which we live. It follows that our schools reflect the values of our community. The question is, do we as a community, value our young people?

If the answer is yes, we need to consider the community's views on the issues of chemical use. Graduation time is upon us, and it should be a time of happiness and celebration. At the same time, however, we would like to urge support of our police department's efforts to eliminate minors' possession or use of chemicals, and to hold adults accountable for illegally providing a place for minors to consume alcohol. With all the legal, social, medical, and educational problems and pain that can accompany chemical abuse, and if our community is condoning the illegal use of chemicals by our young people, the cost to us and society will continue to escalate. For several years, Project Graduation has shown students they can have fun celebrating in a chem-free atmosphere. However, we are certainly aware that commencement celebrations continue after graduation night ... so again, please consider the value of youth, the legalities involved, and join in supporting the police department's efforts in enforcing laws regarding the illegal use and possession of alcohol and other chemicals by minors.

It has been 27 years since I last played Little League baseball, and I can remember those days who taught me to play ball and other things as well. There was "Duke" Boyd, who never spoke loud or harshly at anyone and was very effective and I respected him for that. I also remember Bob Mills, who would play "situation baseball" every time that he rode in his car to an away game. And yes, there was my father. Perhaps the greatest coach that ever lived. Why? Because he took time to play ball with me and show me things that would remain with me for the rest of my life. I am ready to move on to bigger and better things.

The years that I have served on the board have been rewarding and I have learned a great deal about other people and about myself as well. The most rewarding of all these experiences, are those that I shared with the kids. There is nothing as thrilling as watching the eyes of a young ballplayer as they hit the ball for the first time or score their first run.

About eight years ago, there were barely enough kids interested in baseball to put together a Little League team. Today, nearly 120 kids will be playing ball of some kind, at some level, in Bethel. I am extremely proud of the hundreds of kids in the community that I have had a part in making happy. Whether they won or lost. They were there again next year ready to play and have fun.

But the real success of this program, lies not with me or the Recreation Board, but with the many volunteers who gave and continue to give of their time. Without them, it is of these unselfish attitudes of parents and some who are not parents, that I tip my cap to you and say, "thank you." Those times when you think that you are nothing more than a receiver of complaints and criticisms, try to remember that those participants will remember these days long after they have grown up.

more years of her time than I, and she deserves a golden crown for her unselfish giving of her time and energies. Thank you, Alberta.

My interests now will take me to new and challenging areas. These areas are very closely related to what I have been doing and I hope that I will have the support that I enjoyed in the past.

The Recreation Board and the baseball programs will continue to grow. There are enough interested people who seem to have the knowledge to be an effective part of a well established program. I hope that you will stop for a moment and think about the extent to which you will get involved. The community needs people who get involved in a positive way. The community does not need people who will only criticize what others have done. Get involved. Your child will love you for it. Wouldn't you rather be remembered as a helper and not a complainer?

MAKE-A-BUCK PATRIOTISM

To the Editor:

It seems that some unscrupulous people are taking advantage of the patriotic fervor sweeping the country to hop on the money-making bandwagon by advertising for sale items of very poor taste which are downright unpatriotic.

I refer specifically to a recent catalog which I received in the mail which advertises an American flag beach towel. Such a use of an American flag is strictly contrary to the U.S. flag code and I hope that everyone uses good judgement and refrains from purchasing such articles.

I have observed numerous other items in the stores with American flags on them that are not really appropriate but which are not quite so tasteless. I urge everyone to think before purchasing such articles and to make sure they are truly acceptable and patriotic.

Anyone interested in attending this meeting is cordially invited to do so.

Lucy Larcom, a major 19th century literary figure, who summered in Bethel in the 1870s and 80s, is featured in William B. Lapham's "History of Bethel, (1891)." In a recent biography of Miss Larcom, "The Worlds of Lucy Larcom, 1824-1893," published by the University of Georgia Press in 1989, Shirley Marchalonis records the following:

Bethel proved to be the perfect place for her. "I do not think my friends could understand the great effort it has been for me to rouse myself to exertion," she wrote Annie Fields, "even when the object to be attained was a very delighted one. Near the mountains I am a different person; and I feel here, as if I were regaining my former vigor. Certainly my head is getting rested—and that seemed to be the source of all my fatigues." She went on to describe the place "... about a mile from the village, with the river winding through the wide meadows before me, and the White Mountains cut sharply on the sky in the distance. ... The sunsets are something beyond my dreams, almost at times. The mountains lie mainly west from here, and such illuminations as they receive from the late light and the afterglow."

Miss Larcom wrote many of her poems from her summer house behind the present Richard Davis house on Inverness Road below Bethel Village.

By BARBARA ADAMS

Former constable Tony Milligan was appointed Andover Chief of Police, and former constable Chip Cayer was appointed deputy chief at the Andover selectmen's meeting last week. Both Milligan and Cayer will continue to serve as members of the Rumford Police Department. John Percival of Andover was named code enforcement officer.

Chief Milligan appeared before the board to discuss the purchase of a police vehicle, for which the town has $1,000. He and two of the selectmen will look at a 1984 Chevrolet four-door Celebrity in this regard.

"This issue of liability is really major," Milligan said, "if you don't have a designated police vehicle."

He also told the board that in less than three months last year, he and Cayer, serving then as constables, received 22 complaints. "They ranged from the theft of beer at Dave's Store to death notifications, gun complaints, and defective vehicles," he said. "We covered three accidents, two of which were O.U.I. related, and we got two Milligan pointed out similar problems across the county "due to people being out of work and the recession." He also said his police chief designation allows him to have a blue light, which is illegal as a constable, and makes one person responsible for the confidential paperwork.

"We also have access to a brand new radar system this year," he said. "It's going to be a busy year. There are problems all across the county. Andover is in for a rough ride this year. The sheriff's department has been a big asset to us. They supply the papers we need for reports."

Until last week's meeting, the town had also been without a code enforcement officer for months, due to lack of applicants. Percival's duties will commence as soon as he is sworn in.

forest product companies, state government officials and others.
The 13-member council created by the bill is designed to help states, using existing land ownership and management patterns, develop programs to protect the integrity and traditional uses of the northern forest lands.

Three council members would be appointed by the governor of each of the participating states. They would represent the state's conservation agency, environmental community and forest landowners. The 13th member, to be appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture, would come from the State and Private Forestry Division of the U.S. Forest Service.
The draft bill stems from a four-state Northern Forest Lands Study that Congress authorized in 1988. Prepared by the Forest Service in cooperation with a 12-member Governors' Task Force on Northern Forest Lands, the draft study was released in October 1989. Since then, more than 800 individuals and organizations have offered written comments and nearly 1,000 people attended more than 20 public meetings to share their views on the study.

Many of those opinions were reflected in the final Forest Service study, issued in April 1990, and a recommended action plan published the following month by the Governors' Task Force.
Mitchell and Cohen are working with the Senate Agriculture Committee to schedule field hearings on the bill, including one in Maine.

Academy junior James Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Henderson of Kittery, is majoring in political science. He also plays intramural soccer.

"At Gould, we got a taste of what colleges demand of their students academically," Henderson said. "That has held us in good stead at the Naval Academy."

Attending Gould academy wasn't an easy decision. Henderson, for example, had offers for admission at Northeastern University in Boston, Tufts University and Boston University. "I really thought hard before turning down those offers," he said, "but I decided that the chance of getting into the Naval Academy was a once-in-a-lifetime chance. I want to be a naval officer, and coming to the academy seemed to be the best way to attain that goal."

It was a hard decision and a big commitment, but I think it's worth it in terms of a career and an education. At a normal college, I probably would have had more fun, but not learned half as much. Here, I'm not only getting an education, but preparing to be a naval officer," Henderson's long-term goal is to be a Navy pilot.

Brenda Taylor, daughter of Wayne Taylor of Bethel and Rebecca Marston of East Andover, has just finished her first year at the academy. During Plebe Summer, the period of rigorous military indoctrination for academy freshmen, she distinguished herself by setting a record for her class for doing pull-ups (10) and dips (16) in the "Iron Midshipman" Competition. She also placed third overall in the competition, which is a timed physical exertion test including pull-ups, dips, running and sit-ups.

Taylor has just recently selected her major—electrical engineering. She is a member of the women's crew team and plans to earn her military jump wings this summer at Military Jump School in Fort Benning, Ga.

The Naval Academy prepares young men and women to become professional officers in the Navy and Marine Corps. Midshipmen attend the academy for four years, graduating with bachelor of science degrees and commissions as ensigns in the Navy or as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps.

Telstar baseball squad wraps up losing season

The Telstar High School boys' baseball team finished up the season with a disappointing 1-15 record.

The boys only win was over Mt. Abram High School. But Coach Bob Remington said, "With a break here and there we could have won as many as five or six games. We lost a couple in extra innings and a couple in the last inning. It wasn't that we gave all the games up—we had a lot of bad breaks."

The season wasn't without its positive points. The coach said he found some pitching talent that should help the team next season. Sean Gilson, Nate Emery and Pat Harrington, all underclassmen, were hurling strong by the end of the season, Remington said.

The team will graduate four seniors this year. Remington said upcoming eighth-graders may fill some of the void the seniors leave behind, and those freshmen who are not varsity material could develop into strong players if—and it's a big "if"—they turn out for the junior varsity squad next season.

"The kids don't want to play junior varsity," Remington said, "so they don't come out. They want to wait until they're older and play varsity and it doesn't help the team. If they all came out for J.V. it could be a big help to us later."

Reservists

shelter," he said. The Patriot missile installations were located only half a mile from the barracks, Cobb said.

Smith added, however, that everyone was quicker to seek cover after a SCUD missile hit a reservist dorm in Dhrahan—two or three miles from the 619th barracks. Twenty-five servicemen and three servicewomen were killed in that bombing.

Smith and Cobb said that one evening they had just started a fuel haul away from Demmam when a SCUD attack started.

"We were in a convoy hauling diesel, jet and helicopter fuel during a SCUD attack," said Cobb. "We were just outside of Damman when we heard the Patriots go off and I saw lights (explosions) go off to the right." Smith quickly added, "and to the left, the front and the rear." "There was nothing you could do but just keep going," Cobb said.

The desert roads also provided other hazards, some not entirely unfamiliar to Mainers accustomed to moose and mud. The reservists said camels sometimes wandered into the paths of oncoming trucks and the shifting sands could bring an entire convoy to a halt.

"New Year's Eve we ended up in the middle of the desert with 18 trucks, 12 of which got stuck in the sand. So we made a big bonfire and toasted in the new year with bottled water," Cobb said. A wrecker eventually put the convoy back on track.

After Kuwait was liberated, the reservists trucked into Kuwait City. Along the way they got a close look at the oil fires ignited by invading Iraqis.

"We stood up on our trucks and could count 50 of them," said Smith. "Then the smoke would clear a little and you could see even more."

The two also said that the road into Kuwait City had sustained heavy bombing. "The first time we went into Kuwait City we saw that the one whole side of the road had been blown up," Cobb said. "And the other side of the road looked like it had been purposefully blown up every few feet. We had to weave back and forth. Along the road cars and trucks were all over." Smith added, "and some perfectly good tanks had just been abandoned."

During their first trip into Kuwait City the reservists also found time to explore the area a little. "We dropped our loads and went up into the city," Cobb said. "Some of the troops were just starting to march back into the city and the Kuwaiti people were lined up on both sides of the streets, in the median strip and on the bridges with signs and a lot of Kuwaiti flags, waving to us. These were the people who had been in the city during the occupation. They were happy to finally be free."

The reservists said they thought they accomplished the objective set out for them by the U.S. government—freeing Kuwait.

"What we went there to do was done," Cobb said. "But it wouldn't have taken much to go all the way and totally get rid of Hussein. But I don't foresee him staying in power for much longer."

The 619th will hold no summer camp this year, the reservists said. Everyone—even the brass—agrees that the unit has seen enough action for one year. The two men each have time left in their commitment to the reserves, but neither said they were anxious to see active duty again soon.

Cobb's wife Lynn may have summed it up for everyone when she said, "I'm glad it's over, and I don't want to do this again."

By MARTA CLEMENTS

This past week was a four-day week, but we were busy as usual.

The kindergarten children are learning to blend their letter sounds into words. They are practicing writing the numbers 3-6. They are continuing to make their number books. And, they are practicing counting as far as they can.

The first-graders are studying ocean life in science. They are examining both plant and animal life and they will be collecting shells. The class is happy to have a new aquarium for this project, and to have a new incubator for their eggs. Reading and writing activities have been combined. The children have read "Petunia the Brave," and now they are continuing Petunia's adventure—meeting friendly and not so friendly animals. They have read a poem called "Good Night Mr. Beetle," and they are now writing a story called "Good Morning."

The second-graders have started their annual parachute tournament. This is fun and teaches math strategies, facts and patterns. In spelling this week they have been working on the sounds and spelling found in girl/curl words. Stanley Hill has been the special helper of the week.

The final theme of the year for the third-graders is "seed." They will be participating in a variety of activities in all classes learning about the community of living things, the interrelationships, and how one thing depends upon another. The class has been working on their multiplication facts, syllabication in spelling VCV, vowel, consonant, vowel, words, and they are working on their CAP unit discussing similarities and differences and making choices.

The fourth-graders are studying the cities of the Rocky Mountain region. Mr. Litchfield is reading the story of Sacajawea to the class to tie in people associated with the region. The children are finishing up their individual state project which is due on June 7. In health they are learning about chemical awareness and mood altering drugs as part of the CAP program. They are looking forward to their trip to Augusta on June 6.

My fifth-graders are reading about World War II in social studies, and in reading, have been assigned a variety of novels of that time period to be discussed with the class. In spelling we are reviewing the poem, "The Months," and will have to remember and spell the months in order on our weekly test. We have finished up our study of the body systems.

WESTERN MAINE SANDY-ANDY LEAGUE CHAMPIONS—Toji Pearlman levels his swing at a pre-playoff pitch during the Telstar Middle School baseball season. The team posted a 10-0 winning record and were first in the Western Maine Sandy-Andy League. The boys traveled to Jay to compete in the championship game, but lost 5-6. The game went into the ninth inning with a 6-4 score. The team scored one run, but, Coach Tim O'Connor said, "we couldn't dig up another one." The team's only loss in their league was the championship game.

The sixth-graders have been zeroing in on the circulatory system and have finished the unit by dissecting a cow's heart. They examined the valves, chambers and muscle layers. They also viewed a film, "Hemo the Magnificent," which shows the flow of blood through the circulatory system. They have published their book of poetry for themselves and other classes, and they are now working to put together the annual sixth-grade yearbook. Angie Waterhouse, Emily Cole, Amy Coffin and Shannon Faris are the social studies presenters for the week. This group is presenting material on the Andean Highlands.

June dates to keep in mind are: June 6, fourth-grade trip to Augusta; June 7, fifth-graders rollerskating with their Norway pen pals; June 8, alumnae banquet and open house; June 10, field day for whole school, grades four, five and six go to Hebron—students should remember to bring a bag lunch and protection from the sun; June 17, our annual awards assembly, followed by a coffee for our parent volunteers; June 18, this is our last day of school and will be a full day.

A week in the life

of HILLARY HARRISON

Hello, All. How is everyone doing this week? I, for one, am absolutely wonderful. To start it all out, last weekend my family and I went to a wedding in south Bridgton. It was outside so of course the blackflies insisted on joining us. The wedding was beautiful and a lot of people cried. I don't see why though, weddings are supposed to be happy.

After the wedding I went to a friend's overnight birthday party. We stayed up until 4 a.m. eating pizza, cake, ice cream and chips and watching movies. I felt so tired and fat the next day. I'm sure I gained about five pounds.

Now the best thing of all happened Tuesday, when I came home my mom presented me with my mail. I got a letter saying how I was chosen to go to New York and read a poem I had written for the contest. The cost of going to New York was a bit overboard so I don't believe I will be going. Really, just the thought of getting to go in front of celebrities (who will also be there) gave me the willies. Well, I hope you all have a nice week.

A message from the principal

Step Up Day was a wonderful experience. The children had a great opportunity to spend the day with their new teacher and classmates. We really enjoyed the new kindergarten students.

The kindergarten trip to Portland was a real joy. The children received compliments from all of the places we visited on their behavior. Many thanks go to all of the chaperones. We were all proud of our Woodstock students.

The T-shirts sales went well. A few T-shirts in various sizes are available in the school store. We will place an order in the fall for more.

On Friday, June 7 we will publish the last edition of the Woodstock Weekly. It does not seem possible, but the year is nearly ended. The next edition will be published at the end of the first week of school on Aug. 30.

Once again, I would like to thank those who have supported us during our crisis. My family and I wish to express our appreciation with a small token. We have purchased 10 hardcover books for the Woodstock School Library. The books are on order and due to arrive early next week. The books will be inscribed with a thank you to the Wonderful Woodstock School Community in memory of our daughter, Victoria.

At the farm today I looked across the fields into the rolling forest land that has been little disturbed except for periodic lumbering. A succession of woods delight, dark forest, dappled glades, broken here and there by sunny meadows and swamps.

Strawberries grow in the grass of unused fields.

Twin fawns trail over crumbling stumps in the shady edge of the woods.

There are dark spruce groves, where little can grow in the thick mat of fallen needles.

Now and then one catches a glimpse of a river almost hidden in the alder thickets or wandering out to sun itself broadly in the shallows, with a gold brown ruffle.

In days gone by, houses occupied farms only for a generation or two, then deserted them. Left, are the cellar holes and the stone walls run-ing through the woods and along old roads. Most conspicuous and most eloquent are the stone walls that outline the fields and woodlands everywhere in New England. They were dry built not rigid with mortar. They were kept in place only by skillful arrangement and balance. True country walls were made of rough stones just as they were carted from the field by oxen and many a backache. They were functional fences full of sheltering crannies for mice and chipmunks. The miles and miles of walls which travelers see are accumulations of two or three centuries. From early colonial days the upkeep of these walls was one of man's most important private and civic duties. This went on until New England was laced over with a network of stone. Through the woods today, but what marked open fields, or to show the course of local roads before being leveled and straightened to suit traffic moving so much faster than a horse.

Some picnic areas make use of a nook left by a rounded curve or a bridge. One of its charms may be the wall which separates a private field from a public way.

Many walls have been destroyed but recently people are beginning to ask that they be protected. If this is done a bit more of history will be saved.

The walls are seen by each of us/Each has a special place/Imprinted in our memory/That time can not erase.

Many enjoyed the Memorial Weekend by camping, visiting or just resting.

Evelyn Tamminen of Yarmouth spent some time with her niece, Barbara Honkala, at her home in Bethel last week and I visited them at Barbara's home one afternoon. I enjoyed it very much.

Mary Holt celebrated her birthday at her grandmother's home on Sunday. She was very excited with her many gifts and flaming cake. It really did flame for the flowers in the center caught fire from the candles. No problem.

I have been working on my flower gardens and putting in my seedlings. I'm hoping there will be no more frost.

Memorial Day dawned rainy and cool. Several of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War attended the Locke Mills program. It was held in the Legion Hall, a very nice program.

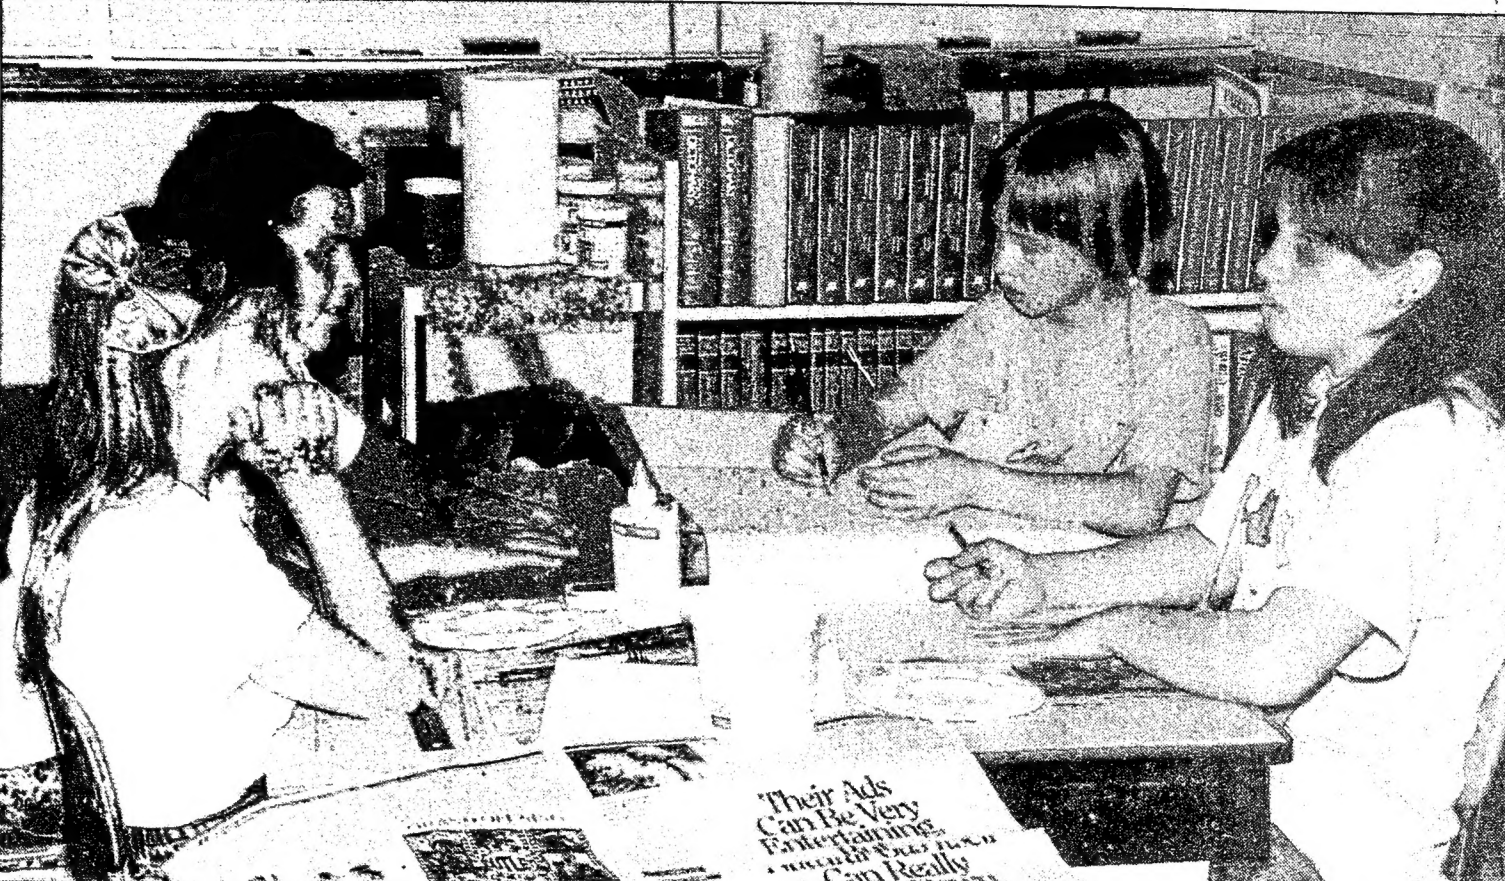

The Memorial Day program and parade was held here at 1 p.m. I don't think the crowd was as big as usual. Our speaker was Jim Cobb, just back from Desert Storm. Also present were Stacy Roberts and Venessa Noyes Austin who have just returned home also.

The Gen. Logans address was read by Jane Wardwell. Music was by Telstar Band who played three songs and also music for the parade. Gettysburg Address was read by Jessica Reynolds. The parade was led by the American Legion Post from Locke Mills. Thanks to all who helped with the program and those who marched.

Dennis Iannarilli of Maynard, Mass. and Kathy Jenkins of Clinton, Mass. were weekend guests at the Raymond Bernier home.

Several from town went to the weekend long yard sale at the home of the late Beryl West of Errol, N.H. Dean and Pam Merchant of New Gloucester spent the weekend at their home here. They brought three boys from the Home for Little Wanderers where they are employed. These boys are interested in many adventures and on this occasion zeroed in on native minerals. They got some fun education in Newry and a chance to hunt for some pretty rocks themselves.

Ron Jordan of Upton and Betty Burnham Strout of Auburn were united in marriage in Lewiston, May 20. Attendees were Ron's sister Pat and husband Don. Newry

Bowling news: Once again Karlene Bachelard took both titles. Missing from the usual gang this past week was Eleanor Davis and Betsy Clark. Karlene, watch out, Gil, Bea and mother Anderson got all the same second highest scores and mother Anderson was 15 1/2 pins behind you on triple game.

Speaking of the bowling girls and out riders, I made a mistake with Gil's niece. Her name is Theresa Toti, not the way I turned her name into the paper.

Mrs. Julie Daye, first secretary and treasurer of the Newry Cemetery Association, has resigned as of March. She was appointed to this position by the selectmen in 1986, and has served faithfully for five years.

Mrs. Daye's replacement is Mary Lou Berry. Mrs. Berry was elected to this position at the annual meeting of the Newry Cemetery Association on April 22.

Due to the lack of sales of plots, according to Romeo Baker, the Association is looking for monies for upkeep of the cemeteries.

During the past week I heard that Sue Moore's mother has died and my condolences go out to her and her family.

Linda Yates called during the week and wanted me to explain to the Newry residents that her camp here in town is for sale. She has to sell it because some of her "students" burned it a while back and the "students" are now facing the courts. These "students" claimed that teacher Yates gave them too much homework. These "students" are from Waterville, not Newry, thank God. This is the thanks a teacher gets for teaching for 20 years.

Speaking of fires; so far the Newry Fire Department has had 12 calls (fires and accidents), 1990 at this point saw us with seven out of 16 calls, and that was our busiest year.

For those of you that missed the community night at the Bear River Grange, did you ever miss a good night. Sylvia Gray's daughter and son-in-law with a group of high school singers, called the "Praise Him Singers," put on a very, very professional show. My only question to kids going to come out with a tape of their songs? After a covered dish supper, the group did a few songs, then Owen Wight took over as MC. During the entertainment we had Parker Gray read his winning essay. Then another Newry resident, Owen's granddaughter, talked about her adventures at the NASA Space Camp. Before the kids (Parker and Jenny); Owen presented to Pastor Rodney Hanson the Granges "Man of the Year" award. At the end of the program the "Praise Him" singers did another set of songs.

Currently I am trying to get all the records from 1988 to 1991 typed for the fire department. The originals will not go into the garbage can, but saved for history; must recycle, you know.

Rather a bad day for Memorial Day parades but we sure need the water to help where forest fires are concerned and the gardens can use it also. I don't like to see it rain on a parade but one has to take whatever weather is sent our way and not a thing we can do about it.

Not as many Grange meetings this past week but had to go for therapy on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Hoping it will help but not too much as yet. It would be just great if I could wake up some morning soon and have it gone away so my neck would be as it should be, but don't expect too many miracles at this stage of the scoliosis. I'm sure it will take time as it did coming on.

Hope everyone has enjoyed the real warm weather we have been having. It doesn't seem like May but more like July with the weather so warm. I remember too many Memorial Days when we have had to wear coats to keep warm while watching the parade. Used to take the kids to see it for many years while they were growing up and they marched in it also. That seems long ago now.

We got our flowers fixed up ready to go to the cemeteries and Russell and Peggy went one evening and the next morning, Wynona came up and we went around to the different places we needed to go. I like to see what shape the graves are in and always wish I could do more than I can for the stones that need cleaning and all that good stuff but finances keep me from doing it as well as my health.

Peggy, Russell and I had bought lots of flowers to fix up boxes to go to decorate the cemetery graves we have and one afternoon I fixed them up ready to go. Tom helped with the cost also, so it made it easier this year where the flowers cost more. We use the silk flowers as they withstand longer and look nice all at the same time.

Peggy was up at Bertha Benoit's one evening this week to have supper with her and they played cribbage during the evening.

Russell has been planting in his garden a little at a time and has gotten his tomato plants out. He had raised them himself and they are nice ones. Other stuff he has planted has come up and is doing fine. He has changed his garden around this year to plant things in a different place as they say one should. Maybe they will do better. We will wait and see, but so far it all looks good.

Friday evening we went to Norway and played cribbage with Tom at his apartment. He and Peggy beat Russell and me most every game. We did win one game during the evening but the cards just didn't come our way. However, it was a good evening of entertainment.

Russell and Peggy went to the dance at Locke Mills on Saturday evening and said they had a large crowd of a little over a hundred there. Made for close dancing but guess they had fun just the same. I stayed home and put puzzles together. Velma Cummings had given me some puzzles to try and I gave her some in exchange. It is good to have different puzzles to do.

Velma called one day this week to see Russell as they are planning to get together for their class after the alumni banquet. Hope I can get our class to do the same when 50 years are up in a couple of years. Got to start on it soon to find where everyone is. I always like to see old friends and one time to see them is at the banquet. Wish more would come to visit.

Sunday afternoon, Peggy, Russell and I went to Bethel on Sunday River Road to visit our brother and wife, the Bryce Yates. Had a nice visit and were lucky to see their daughter, Darnita, and children, Eva, Ariel and Zachary. Also saw their youngest son, Edwick, who was home from New Hampshire for a visit. He and Darnita and family have been over to see their other brother, Elden, who is building a new home for his family. We enjoyed seeing all.

A week or more ago the Lovejoys and the Macks went to Dover South Mills and Sebec to decorate graves and visited friends, the Frank Turners in Palmyra. During the week they went to Canton and Dixfield to decorate graves there in readiness for Memorial Day.

Chris Whittemore of Norway called in recently to see the Lovejoys.

Marcia Baxter spent the weekend with family members in Skowhegan, Palmyra and other towns nearby.

The Sunday School closing programs of the Mission Congregational Church took place on May 19 and Hope Lovejoy was honored for perfect attendance for six years. That is a good record for any child. Keep it up, Hope. June 6 will be green sash night at West Paris Grange so come all green sash members and make it a good night.

Hope everyone has a good day today and a good week ahead. Take care one and all.

Those busy last days

IT'S NOT OVER 'TIL IT'S OVER—Telstar High School seniors spent their remaining pre-alumni days this week completing final exams. Cindy Hammel, front, and Althea Stevens tried to program their way to good grades in the school's computer room. The class of 1991 will graduate Friday, 7:30 p.m. in the Telstar High School gymnasium.

GOOD MOVES—Fred Emerson, left, makes a move on an unidentified opponent during the SAD #44 elementary chess tournament, as schoolmate Stephanie Hurd looks on. AES champion Emerson won the tournament. CPS champ Ramsey Harrington took second, and WES champ Darby Hickey came in third. Thirty young chess players took part in the tournament.

A CHILLY FAREWELL—The Gould Academy Polar Bears were recently awarded ice cubes for their self-inflicted springtime immersions in Songo Pond. Thirty-five students and faculty completed the regimen this season, turning up twice each week for a dip. Here, Steve Chandler, who is retiring from Gould after 21 years, receives a special award from Chief Polar Bear Peter Rackliffe for having been a Polar Bear since 1985.

ETHEL BISBEE VOICES RING OUT—Ethel Bisbee School kindergarten through second-graders showed off their singing talents last week under the direction of elementary music teacher Linda Stowell. Each class sang a variety of up-beat songs. The entire school joined in the singing of the Ethel Bisbee alma mater, written by kindergarten teacher Norma Salway. This may be the last performance by Ethel Bisbee students. Due to a shortage of district funds Ethel Bisbee will be closed next year, and all its students will move to the Crescent Park School. It is uncertain at this time if the school will ever open again.

TOUR EUROPE FUND—Telstar senior Meredith Howe, who has been selected to tour Europe this summer with "The Sound of America Honor Band," was the recipient of a benefit supper put on by the Franklin Grange No. 124, the Bryant Pond Universalist Church and the Daughters of Veterans. Here, Howe is shown with sponsors Peggy Blake, left, and Evelyn Bean.

TRACK STARS—Three Telstar High School track team members placed in the Class C Regionals. Solei Buchanan, left, was sixth in the 3200 meter, Greg Corrin was first in the pole vault and Angie Applin placed sixth in the discus throw. The three tracksters qualified for the State C meet. Applin was the only one to place there, scoring sixth in the discus. The girls' team won five meets this season, lost four and tied one. The boys' team track records were broken this year. Scott Emery broke the 400-meter record and Rafael Gisin the 3200-meter.

From the Bethel Area

Chamber of Commerce

This has been a very busy few weeks for the Chamber. From all reports, most everybody enjoyed themselves at our annual awards reception held at the Bethel Inn on May 17. Congratulations again to all of the very deserving award recipients.

The Bethel Beautification Subcommittee of the Chamber Retailer's has been soliciting contributions toward purchasing half barrels of flowers to be placed on Main Street.

Committee members Jim Mann, Carole Duplessis, Ginger Kelly and Ann Friedlander will be holding a planting party on Saturday, June 8. Once you see the barrels on Main Street, if you would like to contribute towards the purchase of another one please contact Carole Duplessis at 836-2791.

The tournament is open to the public and for a $50 fee you can play 18 holes of golf, have a golf cart and enjoy a delicious barbeque dinner.

We will also be holding an auction with many popular and valuable items. Contact Jay Gamble at 824-1887 or Jack Cronin at 824-2174 for more information.

Tom McGinniss, chairman of the Bethel Art Fair Project has gathered his committee and has done a mass mailing to prospective artists and participants for the fair, to be held on Saturday, July 6 (raindate, July 7) on the Bethel Common. Many participants have already signed up—it should prove to be a great day. There will be music all day and quite a bit of food thanks to many community organizations who will have tables there.

Mollycodd Day planning is ongoing. The Chamber encourages businesses to get involved with the parade. The theme this year is

"Patriotism."

The Chamber staff would like to assure all members of the business community that we will do whatever we can through the proper channels to communicate with NTL about their concerns pertaining to their continued Bethel operations. We are optimistic that once the survey of NTL members has been completed and the true issues are put on the table that they can and will be addressed.

The Board of Directors will be meeting on Thursday, June 13 for the regular monthly meeting.

Congratulations to Jeff and Pattie Parsons on the opening of their new Ta-Ka-Radi facility on Route 2 in West Bethel. Also to Dr. Dave Smith, D.C. who opened his chiropractic business on Main Street on Friday, May 31.

Charlie's Place is now Carmela's

Charlie's Place on Main Street has been sold to Joe Croteau of South Paris, who opened the doors to Carmela's pizza and sandwich shop on Saturday.

Croteau purchased the shop from former owner Edleen Winslow, who ran the Main Street eatery for eleven years. Winslow said she'll miss her customers the most, but "I'll miss getting out of bed at 6:30 a.m. the least."

Carmela's will feature a menu similar to the former shop's, but Croteau has brought with him his own staff and recipes.

The shop will specialize in steak sandwiches and serve breakfast all day, beginning at 6 a.m. Other specialty menu items will include salads, two sizes of fresh pizza, spaghetti dinners, fish and chips as well as fresh donuts and sandwich rolls daily.

This is Croteau's first time as a business owner, but he has been in the pizza business for several years. He has worked as the manager of Sam's and the Pizza House, both in South Paris.

Carmela's began a delivery service to village businesses Monday. "We may also eventually branch out into home delivery in the Bethel village," Croteau said.

The shop will also be doing light catering. Croteau said he's looking for input from his customers on the menu and services he plans to offer. "We're starting out with something our small staff of five can handle. But I want to diversify and serve the Bethel people the best way we can," he said.

Some of the renovations planned for the building are already underway. The main dining room has new paint and paper and Croteau said he will be "spiffing up" the rest of the restaurant over time.

Croteau lives in South Paris with his wife, Carmela, and four children: Charity, Aimee, Tina and Tony.

David Preble, Prim's Pharmacy
Five Precautions for Oral Medicines

Many of the oral medicines (tablets, capsules, or liquids) we take are powerful compounds that modify the body's normal chemical reactions. While some medicines are relatively free of serious side effects, unwanted reactions can occur under certain circumstances. In order to minimize the chances of having reactions to oral medicines, a few precautions are important to remember:

1. Do not take medicine from containers that show signs of tampering.
2. Never give your medicine to someone else. What may be good for you, may not be good for another person.
3. Some medicines should not be taken at the same time alcohol is being consumed. Ask your pharmacist about your medicines.
4. Do not take medicines in the dark. Read the label of all medicines before they are taken to make certain you take them properly.
5. In general, oral tablets and capsules are best taken with a full glass of water. Sometimes it is advisable to take oral medicines on an empty stomach or with food. Ask your pharmacist if you have questions about how your medicines should best be taken.

DAUGHTERS OF UNION CIVIL WAR VETERANS

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War met Wednesday evening, May 22, at the K. of P. Hall for their regular meeting, at which time the Memorial Service was held for their deceased members with the placing of red, white, and blue carnations.

The meeting was opened by President Eleanor Nelson with nine members present. The stainless steel knives are in and anyone who hasn't gotten theirs may contact Doreen Sugars.

It was reported that the flags were put out at the Stoneham cemetery, on the veterans' graves. If we missed any please let us know.

The Patriotic Instructor reported that the program for Sundays services was finalized. The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War attend church together and have a Memorial program at the Honor Roll Monument on the church lawn. They then lead a parade from the church to a veterans grave at the East Stoneham cemetery, pausing at the brook to honor those lost at sea. The local Boy Scouts, Cubs, Tigers, etc. and Girl Scouts and Veterans all participate and add much to the parade and services. After the parade and services, cold drinks and refreshments were served on the porch of Helen Grover and ice cream cones furnished by Sarah Grover.

Members of the Maine Department Convention to be held at Waterville on June 19-23. Frances Grant won the mystery package. A light lunch was served after the meeting by Eleanor Smith and Eleanor Nelson. Meeting was adjourned and the next meeting will be held at the K. of P. Hall at 7:30 p.m. on June 26, at which time members will respond to roll call with a reading or poem or article of interest. This will be the last meeting before summer recess. All members are asked to try to attend.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

The Bethel Senior Citizens will meet June 12 at 11 at the West Bethel Grange Hall. There will be a special speaker before the dinner and one after dinner. Please try to be on time. The price of the dinner is $5.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

At this time of year our thoughts are turned to graduation, and it should be so, for after their years of study we see our children, grandchildren, or friends and acquaintances put on their caps and gowns and march down the aisle, to receive their diplomas.

It is a time of joy, pride and excitement, and to at least some perhaps a bit of sorrow and apprehension.

Some will continue on with their education, to others it means their taking their place in the world's workforce.

Behind lies their years of study and school day pleasures, their dependency and much of their responsibility to parents and others. Not meaning by this that it will be a sudden separation or neglect from others, but many decisions and responsibilities will now rest upon oneself.

To those that have completed their education or are leaving home to continue will find it a time to try their own wings, and although the parents' love and support will still be there, they must now more or less control their own lives and accept its responsibilities.

Be not dismayed, you have been prepared for this endeavor, you have your own initiative to make your life what you want it to be. Your own ambition and determination will prove a power to bring you to your goal.

Your education is a fuel to help generate that power into a working force.

A writer once compared the flight of a spaceship to that of an eagle. He wrote as to how the tremendous power of the spaceship was made possible by many gallons of fuel it consumed, but with the fuel gone it would fall helplessly back to earth, but the eagle could soar to great heights, and glide along for long periods of time, with no apparent use of power.

He said that this was possible because the eagle was made by God and flew by the power God gave him, while the spaceship was made by man and flew on power given by man.

Your fuel was your education, that you will always have, but your power is of yourself, your ambition, your initiative. We all at times face disappointments and become discouraged.

When this happens, become like the eagle and turn to God for your power. He is a source of power that never will be diminished.

He, through his prophet Isaiah, gives us this promise: "Fear thou not for I am with thee, be not dismayed; for I am thy God. I will strengthen thee; yea I will help thee: Yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness." Isaiah, 41:10.
